Mr. Von Der Ahe would neither offirm nor deny this feature of the case, but did say that he was after ball players and was going to get them in whatever way he could, even if he had to buy another club. President Brush said that such a deal could not be made without the consent of the other clubs in the league. Von Der Ahe left for St. Louis this afternoon.

A "Hot" One.

The following from the Cincinnati Commercial-Tribune is rather a hot one on "our own" Jack: According to a Washington paper. Win Mercer writes from Pittsburgh that "the greatest sensation in this neck of the woods since the Johnstown flood, happened the other day. Jack Glasscock bought a round of cigars." "Pebbly Jack" was not true to the city of his residence, if the "round" was not Wheeling-stockes, instead of cigars And it would not require such a stretch of imagination to believe the story, either.

INEQUITABLE TAXATION.

A Correspondent who Thinks Things are Wrong, and should be Adjusted. 14
To the Editor of the intelligencer.
SIR: "The unjust taxation of property within the state of West Virginia, is an abuse of the individual rights of the citizens, and a detriment to the best interests of the state.

the citizens, and a detriment to the best interests of the state.

It is a notorious fact universal troughout the state that the poorer classes pay more than their proportional share of taxes.

Many individuals who maintain a reputation for honesty and fair dealing among their seighbors, commit deliberately, the practically unpunishable offense of withholding a portion of their property from taxation. How difficult it is to obtain a correct assessment of the personal effects of some individuals, whose means are considerable, is en evident fact to those who care to investigate.

Increasing the injustice of this is on the other hand a class of tax payers, who, goodness knows, have little to conceal from the foreseeing (?) eye of the assessor, and who from year to year pay tax upon every taxable article which they possess; mere necessity in the strongle for daily bread. Not only is property within the state unequally taxed, but property assessed is in many instances unjustly valued through the incompetence or dishonesty of the assessor. And it is no rare occurrence for property owing individuals to escape taxation altogether.

But little better can be expected under the present system, when the people are not impressed with the importance of this office. Neither are the individual; to whom these duties are latitusted.

The interests of the state and the rights of citizens demand a more com-and of this office. Neither are the individual; to whom these duties are intrusted.

The interests of the state and the rights of citizens demand a more complete assessment of property and a more equal valuation throughout the several counties of the state.

Another prevailing injustice is the exemption of church property from taxation. The sentiments of the people have always favored the separation of church and state. The framers of the constitution perceiving it as essential to the progress and government of society, inculcated that principle within their ideas of what constitutes i just government based upon the rights of individuals.

Yet the fact remains that this principle sustained in part is directly violated by the exemption of church property from taxation. Who can produce a just and logical reason how we contilibrate to the good of society by placing of an additional tax upon the home of the poor workingman in order for let a ten-thousand-dollar church go free? Or by what method of reasoning demonstrate the justice and equity of such legislation, or reconcile it with the principles of our government?

It is the duty of our legislature now
in session to lift the barriers of Injus-

It is the duty of our legislature now in session to lift the burdens of injustice which help weight down to poverty a considerable beforing of the citizens of this state. And by such means that are in consistency with the respirited principles of justice and squity elevate them to better positions manacially, which is the true road to education and civilization. E. There is such a thing as too much valor when the foe is an insidious one. The bravery that faces death on the battlefield is praiseworthy; that which courts death by a reckless disregard of the slow but sure advances of a deadly disease is the acme of foolishness. Consumption causes one-sixth of all the deaths in the world. In spite of this, thousands are to-day disregarding its insidious approach. Any triffing malady that results in disorders of the digestive organs, causing impure blood, emaciation and lack of vitality, may weaken the respiratory organs and make them susceptible to the assaults of the deadly germs of consumption. Dr. Piepee's Golden Medical Discovery will prevent all that. Moreover, after consumption has gained a foothold, it will cure it. It is the best blood-maker and blood purifier known to science.

The cars on the Moundsville, Benwood & Wheeling electric road are continuing their usual regularly in making time. During the liste snow storm, which was the hardest experienced in this section of the country for years back, they made exceedingly good runs. While electric roads in other cities were greatly delayed, and in some places whoily abandoned for a time, yet this road kept up its traffic and only experienced one delay of two hours, which speaks very highly both for the management and fathrilly work on the part of the employes. When the road was being built many predicted that cars could not be run during three winter mouths in the year. The patronage given has been gradually on the increase since the opening of the road through to Benwood.
